

Title: Forward Together: An interdisciplinary approach to mitigating COVID-19 outbreaks at one of the nation's most diverse universities

Corresponding Author: Jayson Kratoville, Interim Director, University at Albany

"The present abstract explored key decisions and mitigation strategies implemented at the University at Albany during the COVID-19 pandemic that have helped support students, faculty, and staff. I enjoyed reading the specific steps that the University at Albany has taken to mitigate COVID-19 related effects on campus, particularly from an interdisciplinary approach. Health disparity findings should be elaborated on based on findings from the case study. The sample size was quite large so I expect interesting findings to report that would strengthen the paper as a whole. These suggestions would certainly benefit other universities, especially in the face of similar epidemics, pandemics, or public health emergencies."

"The study will make a strong contribution subject to the following;

1. It should be grounded in a theoretical/conceptual framework.
2. Should outline the research questions.
3. Methods should be explained thoroughly.
4. Results appear confusing. A revision of the results to align with the study objectives and aims will greatly advance the study."
