

Title: Exploring differential impacts of COVID-19 related fear and psychological health consequences on college students

Corresponding Author: Amanda Flagg, Graduate Student, University at Albany

"This study highlights an important topic. A more robust discussion section (connecting current research to this and possible new directions) could be helpful."

"1. Juxtapose the aims of the research with the findings and align them. In the aims of the study, there is only one stated aim but, in the discussion, there is a second aim. If the aims are two, kindly take a second look and realign.

Again, I think that the manuscript makes a contribution the literature on impacts of COVID-19. However, I suggest that;

1. you ground the study in a conceptual or theoretical framework
2. The research questions undergirding the study is/are missing.
3. It would be beneficial to readers if visuals are used to communicate the data and findings of the study. "